

Everyday Champions

The church I see is immeasurably MORE than we could think or imagine!

The church I see is full of ordinary, everyday people who are hungry to discover MORE of who they are in Jesus Christ.

The church I see is unashamedly on a rescue mission to connect MORE people to Jesus with a 'whatever it takes' attitude.

The church I see is an irresistible environment that is attractive to people who are far from God. They connect into our family because they see MORE love demonstrated there than in any other environment.

The church I see connects people to their purpose, seeking to draw out the potential of every person and helping them know 'there's MORE in them than they think!'

The church I see is a conglomerate of communities gathering across a large geographic area in the UK and eventually the world, where Christ is the centre to everything they do and everything they are. They know that they achieve far MORE together than they can on their own.

The church I see is preparing itself to reach MORE countries with a global vision while growing small in its focus of serving and helping the person in the locality where it is present.

The church I see is one house with many rooms, different sizes and at different stages of growth appearing in increasingly MORE places with a greater reach.

The church I see produces a unique sound, an EC*HO that elevates Jesus Christ as Lord creating an increased desire for MORE of his presence in its people.

The church I see builds up its people through the word of God, to be MORE resilient, able to persevere despite the greatest of challenges with a passion that does not fade.

The church I see is memorable to the people it reaches because they are MORE relevant than people imagined. They have an ability to help people who have real problems and real life challenges while guided by the unchanging message of the gospel.

The church I see will become MORE prominent in the nation as it raises up an army of devoted people who lean into one another and those who lead them. Their willingness to serve and prefer one another is often seen as 'unreasonable' to the average person.

The church I see becomes MORE influential as it seeks to be inclusive of those society has rejected and creates a family where they can belong.

The church I see is MORE expansive than history books predict, full of the creative energy of God, able to shine brightly producing 'go to' people in the pathways of business, education, families, government, healthcare, the media and the arts.

The church I see plays its significant part in bringing MORE prosperity to their cities and towns.

The church I see has the faith to believe for MORE than it has ever experienced. The word 'impossibility' is not in their dictionary because its not in God's. A spirit of 'we can certainly do it' pervades their 'can do' attitudes and they go on to achieve what will be truly remarkable for the glory of God.

The church I see becomes MORE valuable in the communities it serves by doing everything with a spirit of excellence that reflects the nature of God.

The church I see is a crowd of generations who's diversity is unified in a sea of youthful enthusiasm. This intense unity enables every person to experience MORE of God.

The church I see want MORE because the world needs to see MORE of Jesus.

We are Everyday Champions, and we are ready for MORE!